

Index

- a
- anisotropic magnetoresistance (AMR)
 - effect 177, 203, 208, 209
 - antiferromagnetic (AFM) 52, 55, 122, 139, 177
 - asymmetric multiferroics 133, 134
- b
- bandstop filters/attenuators 157, 164–167
 - BaTiO₃ (BTO) 12, 192
 - BiFeO₃ (BFO) 5, 8, 70, 94, 178
 - Bohr magneton 147
 - Boltzmann's constant 207
- c
- ceramic composites 12–16, 23
 - CFO–BTO composite films 20
 - collinear magnetism 129–130
 - complementary metal–oxide semiconductor (CMOS) 185, 207, 213
 - composite thin films
 - 1-3 type columnar 20–22
 - organic 29–32
 - quasi 2-2 type 27–29
 - two-dimensional multiferroics 32–35
 - 2-2 type laminated 23–27
 - 0-3 structure 22–23
 - conventional ferroelectricity 123
 - converse ME effect 5, 6, 18–19
 - Coulomb (Madelung) interactions 123
 - Curie temperature 6–8, 10, 19, 20, 33, 55, 73, 93, 130, 135, 176, 204
- d
- deep reactive-ion etching (DRIE) 159, 228
 - delay lines 157, 167–168
 - density-functional theory 124, 128, 130, 150
 - dielectric permittivity 217
 - dipole moments 95, 126
 - direct ME effect 5, 6, 18, 22, 34
 - domain switching 101, 134, 137, 143, 188
 - dynamic magnetization 101
 - dynamic magnetization switching 56, 58–60, 65, 184
 - Dzyaloshinskii–Moriya interaction 81, 127, 129
- e
- easy-axis rotation (EAR) 53, 54
 - eddy current 16, 158, 159, 213, 217, 228
 - elastic coupling mechanism 140, 141
 - electrical field (E-field) control of magnetism 55
 - electrically tunable microwave devices 237, 238
 - electrical polarization 123, 124, 126, 130–132
 - electric double layer (EDL) 163
 - electric-field-dependent FM resonance spectroscopy 93

- electric-field-induced easy-axis reorientation 53
 - electric polarization 5, 23, 27, 51, 67, 98, 99, 123, 128, 129, 144, 146, 179, 193
 - electrochemical reaction 29, 30, 103–105
 - electrolytic cell 65
 - electromechanical coupling coefficient 204
 - electrostatic boundary condition 84
 - electrostatic doping 29, 30, 104, 162, 163
 - EM-spin wave
 - coupling 55–65
 - multiferroic composites 239
 - exchange bias (EB) 55, 61, 181
 - AFM/FM/FE 56–60
 - correlation of 58
 - E*-field control of 59
 - in magnetic heterostructures 55
 - multiferroic composites 239
 - reverse magnetic 63
 - voltage control of 177–184
- f
- ferrite-film-PMN-PT-substrate system 27
 - ferroelectricity 5, 75, 95
 - BFO 73, 75
 - conventional 123
 - electronic 125–126
 - geometric 124–125
 - induced by
 - collinear magnetism 129–130
 - noncollinear magnetism 126–129
 - and magnetism 71, 123
 - of materials 95–96
 - mechanism for 123
 - in type-I multiferroics 122–123
 - in type-II multiferroics 126–130
 - ferroelectric polarization 7, 10, 68, 69, 127–129, 131, 133, 135, 136, 138, 140, 146, 176, 180, 181, 185, 192–196
 - ferroelectric random access memories (FeRAMs) 175
 - ferroelectric switching
 - in BaTiO₃/SrTiO₃ superlattice 137–139
 - in BiFeO₃ 135–137
 - properties 134, 135
 - ferroelectric varactors 217, 218
 - ferromagnet/ferroelectric interface 66
 - ferromagnetic-antiferromagnetic interface 55
 - ferromagnetic (FM) magnetization 90
 - ferromagnetic resonance (FMR) 19, 107, 213
 - bandstop filters/attenuators 164–167
 - frequency shifts 19
 - frequency tuning 238
 - magnetic and magnetoelectric inductors 164, 165
 - multiferroic/magnetoelectric antennas 168
 - phase shifters and delay lines 167–168
 - voltage control of 163, 164
 - ionic liquid gating 161–163
 - strain and charge co-mediated 160
 - strain and surface spin torque co-mediated 160, 161
 - strain/stress modulation for materials with in-plane easy axis 158–159
 - strain/stress modulation for materials with out-plane easy axis 159–160
 - ferromagnetic shape memory alloys (FSMAs) 183
 - ferromagnetic (FM) thin films 23, 27, 55
 - ferromagnetism 1, 2, 5, 8, 26, 27, 33, 56, 88, 124, 130, 131, 134, 221
 - ferromagnetism/spin 88
 - field-effect transistor (FET) 29, 102, 107, 220, 221, 223

- finite-difference time-domain method
168
- first-order reversal curve I-V
(FORC-IV) 86
- frequency shifts 19, 166
- frequency tuning 219, 238
- g
- generalized Katsura, Nagaosa, and
Balatsky (gKNB) model 127,
128
- geometric ferroelectricity 124–125
- giant magnetoresistance (GMR) 177,
191, 203, 238
- giant ME (GME) 189, 204, 228
- Ginzburg–Landau equation 134
- h
- Hall effect 203
- hexagonal-boron nitride (h-BN) 32
- i
- interface magnetoelectric effect
144–146
- inverse magnetostrictive effect 52
- inverse piezoelectric effect 52
- ionic liquid gating 29, 161–163
- ionic-liquid-gating magnetism 30, 104
- j
- Jahn–Teller effect 94
- k
- Kittel equation 158
- m
- magnetic alloy-based composites
15–16
- magnetic anisotropy 2, 18, 19, 27, 29,
51, 52, 56, 61, 64–66, 88, 100,
102, 103, 142, 144–146, 157, 163,
176, 177, 185, 186, 188, 238
- magnetic exchange interactions 129
- magnetic/ferroelectric (FE) bilayer heterostructures 102
- magnetic ferroelectric (FE) materials
2, 52, 98, 107
- magnetic field 5, 10, 78, 180
- magnetic hysteresis loops 5, 6, 9, 22,
24, 28, 56, 57, 59–64, 101, 177,
187, 190
- magnetic impulse 58, 59, 65, 184
- magnetic inductors
- magnetic materials 213–217
- structures 211–212
- magnetic moments 5, 8, 32, 63, 92, 94,
95, 122, 123, 136, 144, 146, 149,
177, 181
- magnetic random access memories
(MRAMs) 1, 29, 175
- magnetic recording 237, 238
- magnetic sensors 16, 204–206
- magnetic tunneling junction (MTJ) 191
- magnetism
- bipolar 33
- of CFO 20
- electric-field control of 52
- of electrodes 27
- in-plane/out-of-plane 32, 54, 91
- nonvolatile control of 188–190
- practical applications for 1–2
- voltage control of 52, 157, 176–189,
191, 228
- magnetization
- electric field control of 84
- reversal 55, 61, 64, 88, 101, 141, 184,
185, 191
- switching 32, 51, 52, 56, 58–61,
63–65, 93, 94, 177, 179, 180, 183,
184, 189, 190, 193, 196, 237–239
- tunability of 64
- magnetocrystalline anisotropy 52, 65,
66, 79, 84, 148, 150
- magnetoelectric coefficient 140, 144,
147, 149, 150, 163
- magnetoelectric (ME) coupling 1
- degrees of freedom 175
- effect 157
- interfacial charge–induced 65–70
- other novel interfacial 100–109
- strain/stress-induced 51–55

- magnetoelectric (ME) effect 2, 5–8, 12, 13, 15, 18–20, 22, 32, 34, 66, 67, 76, 77, 84, 90, 98, 124, 129, 134, 144–150, 168, 191, 203, 204
- magnetoelectric inductors 164, 165, 226
- magnetoelectric materials 7, 158, 191, 203, 221
- magnetoelectric random access memories (MeRAM) 55, 71, 176, 177, 237, 238
- magnetoelectric sensor 14, 71, 103, 203, 205–208
- magnetometry measurements 93, 183
- magnetoresistance, voltage control of 177, 191
- magnetoresistive spin valve 55
- magnetostatic energy 52
- magnetron sputtering 2, 16, 56, 159, 161
- magnonics 103, 107, 239
- magnon spintronics 103
- Metglas 15–19, 164, 204, 206, 207, 226
- microelectromechanical systems (MEMS) 164, 207, 208, 219–220, 222, 223
- microwave sintering 13
- monolithic microwave integrated circuit (MMIC) 169, 220
- multiferroic
 - devices and applications 237–238
 - electrically tunable microwave devices 238
 - ferroelectric switching
 - in BaTiO₃/SrTiO₃ superlattice 137–138
 - in BiFeO₃ 135–137
 - properties 134–135
 - first-principles calculation 121–126
 - magnetic recording 237, 238
 - magnetoelectric random access memories (MeRAM) 238
 - ordered perovskite cells 132–134
 - phase-field simulation 134–139
 - in magnetoelectric composites 140–142
 - in single-phase multiferroics 142–143
 - strain engineering 130, 131
 - type-I
 - conventional ferroelectricity 123
 - electronic ferroelectricity 125, 126
 - geometric ferroelectricity 124, 125
 - ns*² lone pair stereochemical activity 123, 124
 - origins of ferroelectricity in 122, 123
 - type-II
 - ferroelectricity induced by collinear magnetism 129–130
 - ferroelectricity induced by noncollinear magnetism 126–129
- multiferroic composites
 - exchange bias (EB) 239
 - spin wave 239
- multiferroic heterostructure 52
 - characteristics 2
 - interface magnetoelectric effect 144–146
 - magnetoelectric coupling 143–150
 - spin-dependent screening-induced magnetoelectric effect 146–150
 - ultrathin ferromagnetic films 67
- multiferroic/magnetoelectric antennas 168
- multiferroic material 82
 - BFO system 70–94
 - bulk composites 12
 - ceramic composites 13–14
 - converse ME effect 18–19
 - magnetic alloy-based composites 15–16
 - polymer-based composites 16–18
- composite thin films
 - 1-3 type columnar 20–22
 - organic 29–32
 - quasi 2-2 type 27–29
 - two-dimensional multiferroics 32–35

- 2-2 type laminated 23–27
- 0-3 structure 22–23
- EM-spin-wave coupling 55–65
- ferroelectric/ferromagnetic hysteresis loops 5
- first-principles calculations and phase field simulations 150
- interfacial charge-induced ME coupling 65–70
- magnetization and polarization in 175
- single-phase 5–11
- spiral spin order control RMnO_3 94–100
- strain/stress induced ME coupling 51–55
- multiferroic sensors
 - AMR effect 208, 209
 - highly sensitive bulk ME sensor 206, 207
 - magnetic sensors 204–205
 - ME coupling 203–204
 - miniature NEMS sensor 207, 208
- multilayer ceramic capacitors (MLCCs) 14
- multiple magnetic resonance 213
- n
- nanoplate resonator 205, 207–208
- nanoscale electronics 88
- noncollinear magnetism 126–129
- nonvolatile control, of magnetism 188–190
- nonvolatile switching 101, 189
- o
- organic composite thin films 29–32
- oxygen vacancy 74, 85, 87
- p
- $\text{Pb}(\text{ZrTi})\text{O}_3$ (PZT) 12
- perovskite cells 132–134
- perovskite-type compounds 7
- phase shifters 88, 157, 167–168, 219, 221
- phase-field modeling 88
- phase-field simulation 134
 - of ferroelectric switching properties 134–135
- ferroelectric switching in BiFeO_3 135–137
- ferroelectric switching in $\text{BaTiO}_3/\text{SrTiO}_3$ superlattice 137–139
- in magnetoelectric composites 140–142
- in single-phase multiferroics 142–143
- piezoelectric coefficients 2, 53, 56, 81, 90, 158, 160, 169, 228
- piezoelectric/ferroelectric (FE) 158, 177
- piezoelectric materials 15, 16, 90, 92, 159, 168, 185
- piezoresponse force microscopy 85, 87, 137, 143
- P–N junction 84, 102
- polarization switching 10, 125, 134–136, 175, 196
- polymer-based composites 12, 16–18
- pulsed laser deposition (PLD) 8, 196
- q
- quasi 2-2 composite thin films 27–29
- r
- radiofrequency microelectromechanical system (RF MEMS) 219–220, 223
- rare earth manganites 7
- resonance frequency 15, 16, 26
- RF/microwave devices
 - in general 163–164
 - tunable 94, 157, 164–168
 - voltage control of FMR 157–161
 - ionic liquid gating 161–163
- Ruddlesden–Popper material 124
- Ruderman–Kittel–Kasuya–Yosida (RKKY) 32
- s
- scanning probe microscopy (SPM) 86
- silicon-on-insulator (SOI) 159, 219

- single-phase multiferroics 2, 7–11, 95, 126, 140, 142–143
 - spark plasma sintering (SPS) 13
 - spin-current model 127
 - spin detector 68, 192
 - spin electronics 71
 - spin–lattice–charge–orbit 19
 - spin–lattice coupling effect 103, 107
 - spin–orbit coupling 100, 101, 127, 128, 188
 - spiral spin order control RMnO_3 94–99
 - SrTiO_3 (STO) single crystal 8, 19
 - standard microfabrication process 166
 - strain engineering 19, 51, 130–132
 - strain/stress
 - effect 107
 - FMR voltage control 158–161
 - modulation
 - in-plane easy axis 158–159
 - out-of-plane easy axis 159–160
 - strain/stress-induced ME coupling 29, 51–55
 - symmetric multiferroics 133, 134
- t
- tensile stress 56, 168
 - Terfenol-D/epoxy (TDE) matrix 15, 17
 - transverse piezoelectric constant 204
 - tunable bandpass filter 164, 222
 - tunable multiferroics 221–236
 - FET switches 220–221
 - RF MEMS 219–220
 - RFIC and MMIC 217–222
 - tunneling magnetoresistance (TMR)
 - effects 177, 203, 238
 - two-dimensional layered materials (2DLMs) 32–34
 - two-dimensional multiferroics 32–35
- u
- ultrathin ferromagnetic films 67, 84, 100, 101
- v
- valence electron 94, 96, 124
 - van der Waals heterostructures (vdWHs) 33, 34
 - vibrating sample magnetometer (VSM) 59
 - voltage control
 - of domain dynamics 184–188
 - of exchange bias (EB) 177–184, 239
 - of FMR 157–161, 163
 - ionic liquid gating 161–163
 - strain/stress 158–161
 - of magnetism 52, 157, 176–189, 191, 228
 - of magnetoresistance 177, 191
 - of perpendicular magnetic anisotropy (PMA) 159
 - voltage-induced magnetic anisotropy 66
- x
- X-ray diffraction 75, 138, 192