

(175)

April 13th 1966.

It is both a pleasure and an honour to be given this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation of the hospitality extended to me during my visit.

The interest displayed in Tetrahedron and Tetrahedron Letters and the very many valuable suggestions offered during our discussions in Osaka, Sendai and Tokyo reveal the spirit of cooperation and scientific dedication that prevails among the leading organic chemists of Japan.

I return to England with renewed enthusiasm and the conviction the future development of Tetrahedron and the Letters in Japan and S. E. Asia is assured.

Many thanks for a delightful and stimulating experience.

Thudua Stephen.