Professor Nozpe:

As you remember, I suggested this symposium as a tribute to you in honor of your retirement. You have been too modest to describe this, but both the symposium and the present high state of Japanese chemistry stand as a tribute to your character and chemistry. Dono arigato gozaimasu.

Professor Nozpe

I think I'd better stick to the humanities.

Thank you for planning the symposium and ladies' program so well. I've learned and explored more in this one week in Serday than you the past 10 months of high school chemistry.
